Start Up Tips

When in doubt, throw it out; If it rots, then why not?!

Meat and Dairy Storage

Put meat/dairy in a sealed container in your fridge until your organics bag is almost full. Simply empty materials into your organics bag (remove packaging) and place the bag in your curbside receptacle.

Maximize Bag Space

Earthbound compostable bags can hold up to 3 ice cream pails full of organics! Many subscribers use a separate container to store their organics, then dump into their bags before taking out for curbside collection.

Bag Condensation

Earthbound's compostable bags are designed to break down and that they will do, sometimes more quickly than you may think. Depending on organics being diverted, using a separate container before dumping into your bag may be best for your household.

Free Liquids in Your Bag

Did you just cut up some overly moist food? Not a problem, simply use soiled napkins, paper towels, etc. to line your bag. It may be necessary to double bag if your waste is very heavy and/or wet. *Some subscribers report benefits in freezing their full green bags prior to collection day.

Compost In the Bathroom

Absolutely! Many subscribers use a container in their bathroom to collect often unthought of compostable items such as hair, cardboard q-tips, tissues, etc.
